

GEORGETOWNE HOMES COMMUNITY CENTER

Davis Square Architects reinvented drab and dark existing conditions into this colorful, spacious community center at Georgetowne Homes, an affordable rental community consisting of nearly 1,000 units located in Boston's Hyde Park neighborhood.

Originally built in the early 1970s, the community center was in dire need of a makeover. The updated facility not only provides space for hosting functions with a community/events room, but is also home to leasing and management offices, a reception/seating area, meeting rooms, staff lounge, as well as a pantry and kitchenette.

The project was part of phased renovations to the development that spanned over six years, and has become a valuable resource for residents. ■
